World Customs Journal

March 2014
Volume 8, Number 1

WORLD CUSTOMS ORGANIZATION

incu
INTERNATIONAL NETWORK OF CUSTOMS UNIVERSITIES
World Customs Journal
Published by the Centre for Customs and Excise Studies (CCES), Charles Sturt University, Australia and the University of Münster, Germany in association with the International Network of Customs Universities (INCU) and the World Customs Organization (WCO).

The World Customs Journal is a peer-reviewed journal which provides a forum for customs professionals, academics, industry researchers, and research students to contribute items of interest and share research and experiences to enhance its readers’ understanding of all aspects of the roles and responsibilities of Customs. The Journal is published electronically and in print twice a year. The website is at: www.worldcustomsjournal.org.

Guidelines for Contributors are included at the end of each issue. More detailed guidance about style is available on the Journal’s website.

Correspondence and all items submitted for publication should be sent in Microsoft Word or RTF, as email attachments, to the Editor-in-Chief: editor@worldcustomsjournal.org.

ISSN: 1834-6707 (Print) 1834-6715 (Online)
Volume 8, Number 1
Published March 2014
© 2014 CCES, Charles Sturt University, Australia and University of Münster, Germany

INCU (www.incu.org) is an association that provides the WCO and other organisations with a single point of contact with universities and research institutes that are active in the field of customs research, education and training.

Copyright. All rights reserved. Permission to use the content of the World Customs Journal must be obtained from the copyright owner. Please apply to the Editor-in-Chief.

Disclaimer. The views expressed in the World Customs Journal are those of individual contributors and are not necessarily those of the Editorial Board, INCU, the WCO or its individual membership, or the publishers.
Contents

Editorial ........................................................................................................................................... v

SECTION 1 – ACADEMIC CONTRIBUTIONS
Legal thoughts on how to merge trade facilitation and safety & security
    Hans-Michael Wolfgang and Edward Kafeero .............................................................................. 3
Review of accredited operator schemes: an Australian study
    David Widdowson, Bryce Blegen, Mikhail Kashubsky and Andrew Grainger .......................... 17
The role of Customs in the economic integration of East Asia: problems and proposals
    Feiyi Wang .................................................................................................................................. 35
Effects of the implementation of single window and simplified customs procedures in the Republic of Macedonia
    Katerina Tosevska-Trpcevska .................................................................................................... 51
The role of customs brokers in facilitating international trade
    Ewa Gwardzińska ....................................................................................................................... 63
Analysis of current customs practices in the United States and a proposed model for world class Customs
    Tom Coyle, Kevin Cruthirds, Sara Naranjo and Katharina Nobel .............................................. 71
The impact on Customs of the implementation of the China-ASEAN FTA
    Li Li ............................................................................................................................................ 87

SECTION 2 – PRACTITIONER CONTRIBUTIONS
The WTO Agreement on Trade Facilitation: status of play in Southern African Customs
    Dhunraj Kassee ........................................................................................................................ 101
The facilitation of trade in Cambodia: challenges and possible solutions
    Sopagna Seng .............................................................................................................................. 113
Customs-private sector partnership: not just wishful thinking
    John E Mein ............................................................................................................................... 129
Entering the EU market in the face of anti-dumping duties: new exporter reviews
    Eric Pickett .................................................................................................................................. 137
Enabling trusted trade through secure track and trace technology
    Tom Doyle .................................................................................................................................. 147

SECTION 3 – SPECIAL REPORTS
World Trade Organization Agreement on Trade Facilitation, 7 December 2013 ................................ 157
World Customs Organization Dublin Resolution, 11 December 2013 ............................................. 187
Developing an ‘Excise Working Tariff Schedule’ for South East Asia: a resource for regional excise policy
    Rob Preece .................................................................................................................................. 189

SECTION 4 – REFERENCE MATERIAL
Guidelines for Contributors ............................................................................................................. 195
Editorial Board ............................................................................................................................... 196
Editorial

Since publication of the last edition of the World Customs Journal in which it was announced that trade facilitation would be the theme of the current edition, considerable progress has been made by the World Trade Organization in progressing the trade facilitation agenda. After years of negotiation, WTO members reached agreement on a comprehensive text for a new Agreement on Trade Facilitation at the Bali Ministerial Conference in December 2013.

The Agreement seeks to clarify and improve relevant aspects of GATT Articles V (Freedom of Transit), VIII (Fees and Formalities connected with Importation and Exportation) and X (Publication and Administration of Trade Regulations), with a view to further expediting the movement, release and clearance of goods, including goods in transit. The Agreement also contains provisions relating to technical assistance and capacity building support that may be required by developing and least-developed countries to effectively implement the range of agreed initiatives.

Article 13 of the Agreement, which covers institutional arrangements, establishes a Committee on Trade Facilitation to drive the implementation process. In doing so, it will seek advice from other relevant organisations such as the World Customs Organization. In response to the WTO Agreement, the WCO issued its Dublin Resolution which sets out its commitment to assist the WTO in this important task. Both the WTO Agreement and the Dublin Resolution have been reproduced in Section 3 of this edition of the Journal which includes a broad range of articles on different aspects of trade facilitation from both our academic and practitioner contributors.

The next edition of the Journal will include several articles that focus on collaborative border management, together with a selection of papers delivered at the Inaugural INCU Global Conference that is being held from 21 to 23 May in Baku, Republic of Azerbaijan. Continuing the theme of trade facilitation, the title of the conference is Trade Facilitation Post-Bali: Putting Policy into Practice. For those who are able to attend the conference, I very much look forward to meeting you in Baku!

Finally, I would like to welcome Professor Enrique Barreira who joins us on the Editorial Board. Professor Barreira is a highly respected lawyer specialising in customs, tax and trade law. He is a founding member of the International Customs Law Academy and played a key role in drafting the Argentine Customs Code. We look forward to Professor Barreira’s contribution to the Journal.

David Widdowson
Editor-in-Chief